The "American Citizen." published at Hillsbourough, Highland Co., Ohio, a fierce and uncompromising Know Nothing paper, which has labored zealously against the Republicans ever since their organization, has just gone over to the Democracy. It is hailed with extravagant demonstration of welcome by the papers as a "great accession". We wish them joy of their "accession." But how it is an accession we confess our inability to see, It has always opposed the Republicans to the bitter end, and we have no doubt, far more efficiently for its ally, the Democratic party, than it will be able to do under its new colors.

There are two other piratical sheets of the same sort still left in Ohio, which a "decent respect for the opinions of mankind" should compel to go with their late partner into the embraces of the "gentle Democracie."
